Principal's Message

The Gargoyle staff has chosen felicitously the device of quotations as hooks to hang things on. My message to the seniors hangs on this hook, a quotation from Louis Pasteur: "Chance favors the prepared mind." That is, the prepared mind recognizes fortune, chance, or opportunity when it appears and knows how to make use of it. The mind of the Renaissance man was prepared in a wide area. He could almost take all knowledge for his province. Leonardo da Vinci painted gloriously, but he also invented complicated machines. In our time, the field of knowledge having grown so vast, the prepared mind is specialized so that the good fortune of success in a career may be achieved. Success in living, of course, demands wider preparation. You seniors have made a start in preparing your minds. Continue that preparation until all kinds of good fortune and opportunity may favor you.

ARTHUR FRANZEN

1967 is a special "graduation" year for Mr. Franzen, for he is leaving Flushing after twelve successful years as its principal.

All his friends at Flushing wish him joy, good health and happy pursuits.

Dedication

This year, Flushing High School had the unique experience and pleasure of having had two principals during the school year. In the fall term, Mr. Franzen took a sabbatical leave and in his place came a man who has proved himself an outstanding teacher and chairman, and was now to impress us as a superior administrator.

Mr. Lopiparo, already known to many as chairman of the Math Department, soon became a familiar figure in the halls and at assemblies as a vigorous, dedicated man interested in the individual student. Continuing the tradition of Flushing High, he has a firm faith in the local public high school as an instrument for the transfer of ideals from one generation to the next. Not all men can say that they are able to give a life's service to something in which they sincerely believe.

We are all very grateful to him for his work, as Acting Principal, which he performed in his usual vibrant and inspiring manner, and for all the years he has devoted to the education and training of more than a generation of Flushingites. Now in an age of military rivalry, the schoolteacher, armed with his books, can be trusted to achieve more than any soldier ever will. In this brief, but hopefully meaningful space, we wish to express our appreciation to him, for in the words of H. B. Adams, "A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops."

*"The time has come to talk of many things:
Of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—
Of cabbages—and kings."*
Lewis Carroll

"He too serves a certain purpose who only stands and cheers."
Henry Brooks Adams

*"The difficult we do immediately
The impossible takes a little longer."*
Unknown

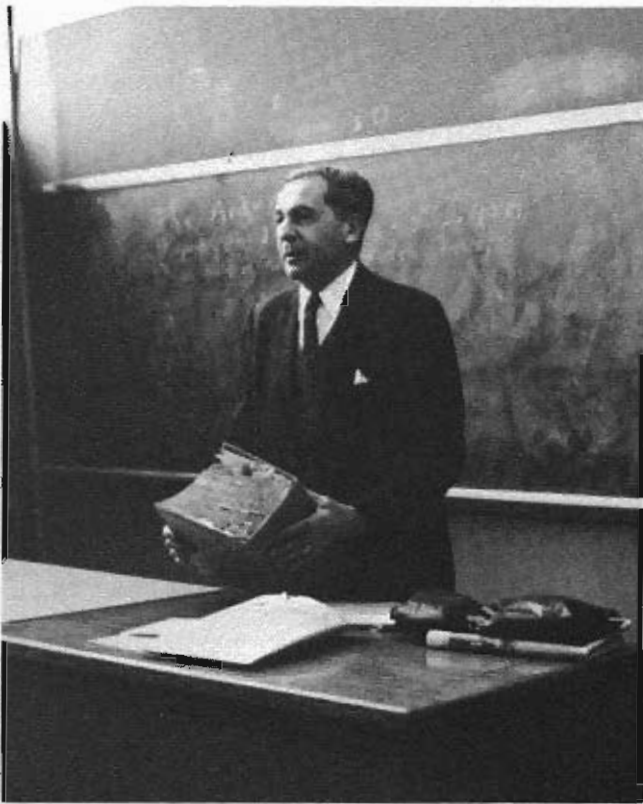

*"And the highwayman came riding—riding—riding—
The highwayman came riding: up to the old inn-door."*
Alfred Noyes

"And seem to walk on wings and tread on air."
Alexander Pope

*"O! Pardon me, thou bleeding piece of earth,
That I am meek and gentle with these butchers!"*
William Shakespeare

"Familiar quotations . . . are more than familiar, they are something part of us . . . These echoes from the past have two marked characteristics—a simple idea and an accurate rhythmic beat."

C. A. Wilson

The idea of the pervasive quality of quotes is incontestable. Very often the thoughts of today are most aptly expressed by the writers of yesterday. These wise men were able to capture concisely and poetically a simple, though timeless and universal idea, thus placing the adages and proverbs we use so frequently, high above the mundane cliché.

The power of a popular quote is not a trivial matter at all. From "all men are created equal" to "think not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country," society on all levels has repeated and believed these sayings, and has risen up at "54/40 or fight" and "Remember the Alamo" to forge the history of the world.

"The world will little note nor long remember what we say here," and we don't propose that the 1967 edition of the Gargoyle will have historical value. But to the graduates of Flushing we hope that the quotes used herein will catch some of the feelings that you have experienced as students, and serve to help you to remember all the adventures that attending this school has brought you.

"There is no royal road to Utopia," said Camus, and the administration of Flushing High School has realized this through its dealings with students and faculty alike. Problems like truancy and vandalism plague it constantly.

Grade advisers and the program committee are burdened with problems of "personality conflicts" and "equalization," while the "test committee" consisting of Mr. Shapin, Mr. Gray, and Mr. Crystal struggles to review and to return to the students, the results of such major exams as the Regents Scholarship Test, The National Merits and the Scholastic Aptitude Tests. Although situated in an obscure part of the building, the College Room is one of the most oft frequented and oft feared rooms around.

The deans must deal with students directly on matters such as cutting classes, long hair and dress. This year, stricter rules of behavior have been imposed on the students, including the enforcement of a reserved Senior Day, and the shortening of Intercession to six minutes—which change successfully defied the efforts of the entire tobacco industry.

Nevertheless, the efficient and dedicated administration staff tries to keep the school running in a smooth, businesslike manner.

Goldberg, Mr. Schwartz, Mr. Boyers, Mr. F. Goldberg, Mr. Shoglow

Friends, Students, Countrymen, lend me your ears,
I come to praise English, not to bury it,
The evil that language does lives after it
The good is oft interred with its grammar.
Let it not be so with English. The noble
Zisowitz hath told you English hath complexity.
If it were so, it was a grievous fault
And grievously hath English answered for it.
Here under leave of Zisowitz and the rest—
For he is an honorable teacher;
So are they all, all honorable teachers—
Come I to speak for English.
It was my friend, both in proper form and slang
But my teacher says it was clichéd
And they all are honorable teachers

It hath brought many pupils through Regents
Which victory did the general colleges fill.
Did this in English seem unreasonable?
Injustice should be made of meaner stuff.
I speak not to disprove what students spoke
But here I am to speak what I do know.
We all did study it once, though not without groaning.
What cause withholds you then from further associating with it?
Oh classics, thou art fled to obscure collections,
And men have preferred the thrillers.
Bear with English, friends.
Our masterpieces are in the making here with our class,
And we must pause till they are written for us.

Social Studies

Social Studies in Flushing High School is a course of perpetual adventure, revolution and change. One can see man develop as his mind grasps new concepts and he learns to stand up to nature's blows.

As a sophomore, a student starts with the age of gigantic pyramids and palaces, and then sees Europe settle into darkness after the fall of the mighty Roman Empire. The later rebirth and growth of Europe and the invention of machines which could turn the work of twenty men into the work of one, revolutionizing the economy of the entire world, ends the year's work.

As a junior, he enters the study of American History and watches the U.S. become a nation, expanding and broadening its horizons, and sometimes losing friends as it defends its ideals.

During the five months that a student studies Economics he becomes acquainted with Malthus, Gresham and the laws of supply and demand. When the class reaches GNP, confusion reigns but that's all right because President Johnson and Gardner Ackley are good friends.

History is a subject that one can never be finished studying. As Adlai Stevenson said, "A wise man does not try to hurry history."

*"Events are writ by History's pen:
Though causes are too much to-care for:—
Fame talks about the where and when,
While folly asks the why and wherefore."*

Languages

"He who is ignorant to foreign languages knows not his own."

Goethe

"Click, click, click, click, click, click!" Is it Jiminy Cricket? No! It's the sound of castanets. If you're wondering what castanets have to do with the Foreign Language Department, you've forgotten one of the important aspects of the Program—culture. Don't get the idea that Spanish is one great flamenco. Besides such demonstrative forms of absorbing culture, the language program includes dialogue and audio-visual techniques, and students are taught about the customs and history of the foreign countries where each language is spoken.

In Latin, this is an unusual aspect since the people who originally spoke this language have not been seen for about 1200 years. The French atmosphere is created by contact with the literature of Molière and de Maupassant, and the German program offers exposure to such greats as Goethe and Heine.

Those who take Russian do much more than sing "Volga Boatman" or listen to the strains of "Midnight in Moscow." To supplement the vocal aspects of the course, the students are familiarized with Pushkin's and Turgenev's works.

Although in many schools foreign language means "conjugate" and "decline," in Flushing High School, it also means "see, sing, appreciate and learn."

To Prove: "I have hardly ever known a mathematician who was capable of reasoning."

Given: 1) To the students at Flushing High School, courses in the ninth and tenth year mathematics, including elementary algebra and plane geometry, and at a higher level for further research into the proposition, solid geometry and advanced math.

2) In our years at the school, they teach us of sine waves, and any sober motorist will testify that it is very improbable that one will ever see a sign wave.

3) Given also the expectation that we will pass all quizzes, mid-terms and Regents.

4) We are also expected to prefer, as they do, to call a square an equilateral, equiangular quadrilateral of the first order, and believe that though A can walk four times as fast as B, it is really possible that on a bet he did walk forty-eight hours at a stretch.

5) The fact that the invention of locus has only served to plague both farmers and students for years.

6) Even the protractor companies complain, for it seems that in recent years math teachers have no need for such devices as they already know all the angles!

Biological Sciences

Pursuing a rigorous program to give the students a better understanding of this complicated world, Mr. Weinberger and his biology teachers have taught this science on many levels to all students in the school. General Science and Biology are taught to all students, while Microbiology and Physiology are offered to those qualified and eager to taste the rewards of specialized science courses.

The Biology syllabus has changed so rapidly in recent years that it is almost incomprehensible to the average parent, and even the average bird and bee are looking on in amazement.

Physical Sciences

For all stout-hearted Flushingites the Physical Sciences Department offers many interesting and challenging courses.

Any student interested in finding out what the gargoyles are made of could do so by taking Earth Science. Of all the courses in the Physical Sciences Department, this is the most popular. It covers everything from rocks and minerals to weather and astronomy and what happened to the boy who foolishly took his girlfriend for granite.

If you should ask what causes the horrible odor that pervades (from time to time) the area around 369, the answer will probably be that it is just some student's chemistry experiment. However, this is not true; the culprits are the chemistry teachers themselves. They use this device to keep inquisitive students out of the chemistry lab while they are busy changing lead into gold. However, when pressed they deny all knowledge of the process. Instead, students are forced to stick to the usual high school chemistry syllabus.

For all survivors of chemistry there is always physics, taught by the inimitable Mr. Daar assisted by Floradora, Garibaldi, Stanislaus and some Hindu philosophy.

The Physical Science Department also offers, for students with a great interest in science, advanced chemistry and advanced physics.

"Equipped with his five senses, man explores the universe around him and calls the adventure science."

Secretarial Studies

*"The Moving Finger writes, and, having writ,
Moves on: Nor all your Piety nor Wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line.
Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it."*

Omar Khayyam

The complex business world of today is run by high salaried executives. They are the decision makers, yet without the valuable assistance of a competent staff of secretaries their decisions cannot be carried out effectively or efficiently. The importance of the secretarial position is too often overlooked and the capabilities of the secretary are rarely given full recognition. Business, however, could not function without them.

The Secretarial Studies program attracts students for various reasons. The majority of students plan on entering the secretarial field on a full time basis after completing their formal schooling. Some hope to use this knowledge for part-time positions, and still others hope it will aid them in their college education.

Only by diligent effort can a secretary acquire good business ability. The advantages offered in the business world, to skilled secretaries, are many; however, as with academic subjects, the individual student must study and practice in order to attain the required standards.

Flushing offers a fine staff of Secretarial Studies instructors, as well as a wide range of subjects, including typing, stenography, clerical and secretarial practices. Most equipment is modern, and will prepare the commercial student for the actual business world.

Although academic courses are of great importance, there is also a growing need for those who can record this new knowledge with accuracy and speed. Flushing produces individuals who meet this demand.

Ah, take the Cash, and let the Credit go,
Nor heed the rumble of a distant drum."*

Omar Khayyam

The Accounting and Law Department also contributes graduates versed in the ways of the business world, teaching the students about stocks and checking accounts in its senior Business Survey classes, for example, and civil law for consumers. The department also offers courses in salesmanship, distributive education, bookkeeping and business machines to the commercial student, thus taking into account a variety of interests and needs.

In sympathy with some students who have studied law, C. Macklin wrote:

"The law is a sort of hocus-pocus science; that smiles in yer face while it picks yer pocket; and the glorious uncertainty of it is more use to the professors than the justice of it."

"He who steals my purse steals trash."

"A tool is but the extension of man's hand."

H. W. Beecher

Although not strictly vocational in nature, the Industrial Arts Department does include the "shop" courses where students are introduced to subjects requiring a physical dexterity as well as mental alertness. For example, the Metalwork shop is a preparatory course for those wishing to pursue a career in automotive mechanics, or other metalworking trades and the Woodworking shop presents the pupil with an understanding of the fundamentals of carpentry and furniture making. The Electric shop provides a broad program dealing with electronics.

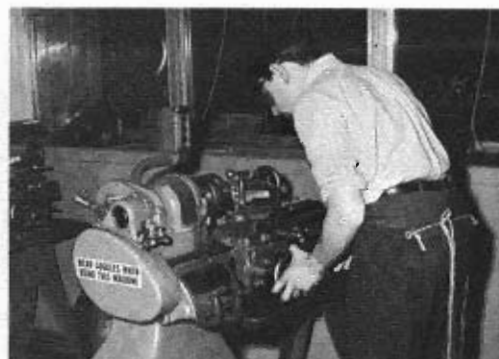

There is also a Pre-Engineering Drawing course, teaching drafting and the related field of architecture, of which a knowledge is necessary to design the skyscrapers, and homes of the future.

We may live without friends, we may live without books,

Owen Meredith

To this end, the Home Economics Department offers courses in foods, clothing and family living to prepare every girl for a role as wife and mother as well as cook. In addition, these classes open the door to the multitude of career opportunities available in all areas of home economics.

In the food classes the girls have prepared many aromatic dishes, as students on the third floor can testify. Included on the menus have been biscuits and apple pie and such gourmet dishes as Quiche Lorraine and Crepes Suzette.

In clothing classes students progress from making simple sheaths and jumpers to completing tailored suits, and in Family Living lively discussions on boys, social adjustments and jobs for married women, take place.

*"And the night shall be filled with music
And the cares that infest the day shall fold their tents like the Arabs
And as silently steal away."*

Longfellow

Longfellow must have been writing about our annual blast, otherwise known as the Spring Concert. This program allows any able music students to show exactly what they have up their trombones. During the year, the choruses and bands entertain the pigeons in the tower, and provide music for those in the cafeteria to eat and scream by (or at). But we do have many talented musicians in our department, as shown by their standings in various city and nation-wide competitions and membership in all-city groups.

The music department is run along the philosophy so aptly expressed by one lonely harp who said, "If music be the food of love, play on."

Art Department

An object of art is created when a person is moved to express in painting or sculpture, some experience or reaction he has had. The basic skills of painting, lettering and designing with different types of materials are taught to our students. They also learn the commercial aspects of art which are those seen in magazines and newspapers.

A course in art implies not only learning what to do but what to appreciate. Included in our own classes at Flushing is the study of international art trends from the Renaissance to the much discussed "pop" and "op." Art has never been free of controversy and Kipling's remark, "It's clever, but is it art?" could be used easily today in the battle to deny artistic standing to the avant-garde set.

"Cause—Spring physical fitness testing and a prolonged contact with parallel bars, horses and ropes.

Symptoms—1. Heart-rending groans and a noticeable pallor after attendance is taken and new exercises suggested.

2. Pain in the area of the part of the body below the head.

3. Marked decrease in density of the class as the term progresses.

Suggested Treatment—1. Stop all physical exertion immediately. (If the arms had ever been meant to touch the toes, they would have been made longer.)

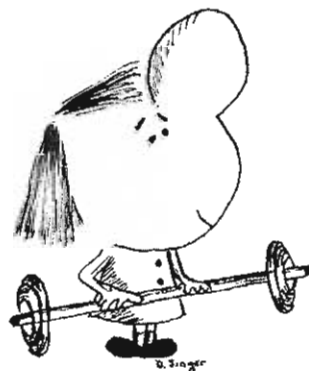

2. Administer kindness and sympathy in large doses and advise an extended bed rest.

3. Initiate transfer to a class in Advanced Lounging or Accelerated Idleness within the week."

The irrepressible staff of Flushing High's newspaper is constantly caught up in a flurry of type-sheets, copy, galleys and other journalistic what-nots. A visitor to the Forum office, alias the Lost and Found, might be amazed that such clamor and chaos actually produce a newspaper, but the proof lies in the Forums which are faithfully delivered to the sections.

The Forum's main objective is to report about interesting people and events in Flushing High in an informative, entertaining manner. In addition, it expresses the staff's opinions on current issues through the editorials and features.

(It may be some time before the Forum expands to a daily, due to the fear that it will lack school support, but it is hoped that one day the paper will appear more often, when the editors realize that we really are for 'em.)

Folio

Our literary magazine, Folio, is printed once each term and contains outstanding students' work that has been able to pass the rigid scrutiny of the staff and editors, which is roughly equivalent to the Army's 48 hour survival test. Recent issues of Folio have sold spectacularly well due to the voracious reading habits of Flushingites and the ever so subtle marketing techniques of our English teachers. ## Gargoyle

The Gargoyle staff tries all to please,
Feeding on yogurt, fish and cheese,
And 'mid the crumbs and even tears,
An outline of the book appears.

To get a picture for each name,
And determine each one's fame,
Class president—who all remember,
Or first and foremost—"G.O. Member."

Amazing what we find to fight
When simply choosing blue or white,
Each one swears he doesn't care
Each one slaves and pulls his hair.
"Your work is dull; it's much too sloppy."
"Ed's lost 40 sheets of copy."

I can't believe we've one week left
We haven't got a printer yet
But no one will that news dismay
Since no one's bought it, anyway.

So in our chaotic state we sit
Writing a yearbook that will fit
Into the pattern three years have tied
It too will belong to Flushing High.

And when Time who steals our years away
Shall steal our pleasures too
The memory of the past will stay
And half our joys renew.

"The Gargoyle often makes his perch
On a cathedral or a church
Where, mid-ecclesiastic style
He smiles an early Gothic smile."

C. Herford

Arista

It began one day when a fiery argument took place among three parties, each burning to be considered the most important.

"Pure objective numbers! Scholastic average is the only true way of judging the individual."

"Pardon me, but you are not taking into account that participation in extra-curricular activities is part of the well-rounded person. Any tallow drip can achieve a 90% average in two consecutive terms, you wax brained idiot! But a mere walking encyclopedia who lacks a multiplicity of interests and does not render useful service is not an asset to his community."

The heated debate continued as a third wicked party, getting hot under the collar, added fuel to the fire.

"The two of you don't hold a candle to me! Without a code of ethics, good marks and service credits are never obtained."

They lit into one another until their hot-headed arguments melted away. One could see that the remaining pool of ideas was the true basis for the Arista society.

*"Tell (for you can) what is it to be wise?
'Tis but to know how little can be known,
To see all others' faults, and feel our own."*

The girls with red sashes across their white blouses seen by parents at all extra-curricular functions are not the local Miss Americas, but the girls of the Service League. Members are elected in each section and assist visitors with programs and in finding rooms like 140 and 238, which are two rooms even the architect forgot. All of their work is done after hours when they are not required to stay but they volunteer nights, afternoons and between terms, to help the school run more smoothly.

Mrs. O'Regan, Librarian-in-charge

Over the years, Flushing High School has collected quite a good library, and it is growing all the time. Two Library Clubs were formed and the room made more attractive with prints on the wall. This year two new microfilm machines were added and files of the New York Times and various magazines were begun, as the librarians fought against those who state:

"The newspapers! Sir, they are the most villainous, licentious, abominable, infernal—Not that I ever read them! No, I make it a rule never to look into a newspaper."

Student Government

The "senior citizens" of Flushing have mended their old bones and have become part of the modern scene, crying out for individuality and change. Having decided that they want to leave an indelible and admirable impression on our school, the class of '67 set out to make the year unique.

The most difficult part was combatting student indifference and lack of spirit. Changes such as switching the traditional colors of the white senior buttons to red, and red senior hats to white, were introduced. Then there was the annual Senior Show—"Fiasco '67"—and an exciting Senior Day. The Senior Council, composed of representatives of all the senior section classes, sponsored a contest for a new official school song, which future Flushingites will ever remember as a contribution of our class.

G.O. activities included a rousingly successful production of "Oliver." It continued spending money generously for the teams, clubs and publications, maintaining its high expectations and hoping that one day obstacles to its projects will be overcome. (Well, it's our school color so a little red tape must be expected.)

"In my younger days I used to blame the older generation for the trouble they got us into. Now here I am in the older generation, and trouble is still with us."

Flushing High School's political activities may not have an earthshaking effect on the world situation, but they do play an important role in both the school's tradition and organization. Red, White and Blue—Green and Blue, the school's two political parties, are instrumental in producing qualified candidates to fill key G.O. positions.

Once the parties' campaigns are in full swing, the school halls become adorned with posters sporting clever sayings to promote the different candidates. Members are seen wearing campaign buttons to inform other students of their favorite nominees.

Every afternoon until the rallies are presented to the school assemblies, the auditorium and lunchroom are busy with the chatter and excitement of the parties rehearsing their skits. This year, a dramatization of the development of the party by Green and Blue, and Red, White and Blue's western theme were used to influence the student body in voting. ("Practical politics consists in ignoring facts" Adams) The important thing in the electioneering is the friendly competitive spirit existing between the two sides.

The G.O. counselor and both party advisers try to give the students as much freedom as possible so that they may become acquainted with politics. Many students are not aware of the behind-the-scenes intrigue so important to a successful campaign. This opportunity is invaluable for those thinking of a political career or those who just enjoy the thrill of an election, for

"Behind every successful male there is a female." Firm believers of this adage, the cheerleaders and boosters, are the inspiration for Flushing's team actions on the field, on the court and in the water. The rigorous training of these girls often prevents their participation in many of the other school activities, yet if one were to ask a cheerleader if she thought the time-consuming drills too burdensome, the reply would be an emphatic "no."

The Twirlers make it a policy to accept anyone who wishes to learn how to spin a baton. They further encourage the spirit of Flushing by their exciting performances.

Presently, a secret new offensive against future opponents is being planned regarding the girls wearing red and white topsless suits, instead of the traditional skirt and sweater. They are also hoping that this will raise attendance at the games, though they're not sure if this will really keep the boys on the ball.

"Hey, what's going on in the girls' gym?"

"I dunno. But I can tell you one thing—those girls are pretty good!"

"Makes you feel kinda flabby around the edges, doesn't it?"

Amazingly, the Flushing girls are keeping physically fit and enjoying it at the same time. One reason is that there are many clubs to assist girls in developing their skills in the areas in which they are especially interested. If they like gymnastics, there is a club for this, and for the more energetic among us, the Leaders' Club. This club is geared to girls who are interested and take a lively part in physical education. Its main purpose is to develop potential leadership. Skills are taught in a variety of sports, as well as in refereeing.

The Girls' Physical Education Department can even claim to be the cause of the extra concentration the boys now place on their muscle-building exercises. When that Amazon love tap finally comes, they want to be ready for it.

We know the score, there's nothing more
The games are all decided
The "Mite," he fought.
But all God wrought
Were five scores so onesided
We're 2—5—1, but that's all done
No need for hari-kari
'Cause next year Jim Roberto's back
And likewise Abe McClary
But this year—oh! That Ed Berg Show!
With Anderson and Turner!
Our line was swell, but what the heck,

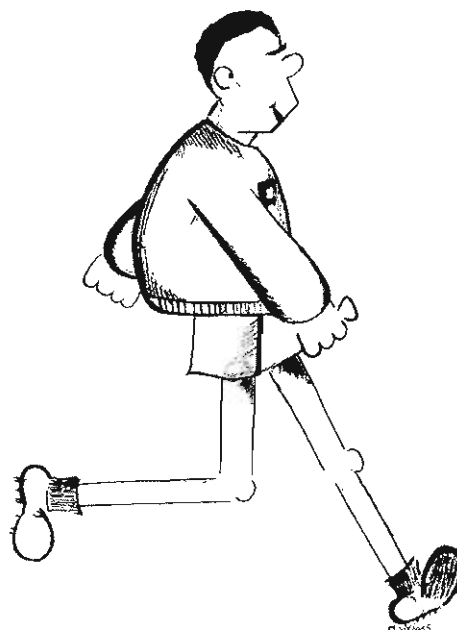

Our foes were that much sterner.
And . . . Hark . . .
Never, never, never again
Will I see Dave Dyson, or Mule-Train Kane
Or Leder, Langford, Scot, or what—
They call the other guy.
Ask not for whom the bell tolls, friends,
It tolls for Burke, and Brock, and Benz;
For all good boys who sit and weep
While watching die a power sweep.
